Nikki is a true masochist. The one that has to have the pain. The one that can't live without it. The one that is not truly happy until she has tears running down her face. I know this and I am happy to be the one to take this pain where on the journey she so desperately needs. It takes less than five minutes and we already have her crying. Her punishment is severe, her suffering brutal, and her tears are a welcomed release. She suffers through extreme punishment until she can't take any more.
